LastHammer

Auction price history for wine buyers, where you bid.

WHAT IT DOES

The badge

The last hammer price per bottle for the same wine and vintage, under the lot while you browse. You know what it last made before you bid.

The sales behind it

Click the badge for the recent sales: date, house, price per bottle, bottle size, and the average of the last three. You can tell one lot from a pattern.

Tasting notes

The same panel links to the wine's page on CellarTracker for its most recent tasting notes, in a pop-up window or a new tab. You see how it is drinking before you bid.

Search

Two years of results across twenty-eight houses, by wine and vintage, at lasthammer.com/app. You check a wine before a sale, on any device.

Watchlists

Name the producers you follow. An email when one comes up in an open sale, each lot with what the wine last made. You never miss a producer.

Under the average

Set a margin on any watch. A second email while there is still time to bid when a lot sits under the wine's average by that much. You decide what counts as a deal.

Auction calendar

Every live and online sale at the houses covered, with a free email 24 hours before one closes or starts. You plan the week.

Cellar valuation

Upload your list and get it back priced at the last hammer per bottle, with a coverage count before anything is charged. You know what your cellar is worth.

Cellar Maxxing

Selling? Upload your list and see, wine by wine, which auction houses have hammered it highest, and what the cellar comes to at the best house or split across two or three. You consign each wine where it makes the most.

The plans

Monthly $30 or yearly $275, after fourteen days free with no card. The trial covers the badges and search; the cellar valuation and Cellar Maxxing come with a plan. Firefox, Chrome and Edge, up to three browsers per key.
